DATASETS DETAILS
Assumption	Transaction Data	Customer Data	City Data	Cab Company Data	Population Data	Weather Data	Holiday Data
1	All transactions are correctly recorded.	Customer demographic data is up-to-date and accurate.	Population figures are accurate for the analysis period.	Profit and trip data is accurately attributed to the respective cab companies.	Population growth rates are consistent across sources and years.	Weather conditions are correctly matched to travel dates in the transaction data.	All major holidays affecting cab usage are included.
2	The Profit per Trip is accurately calculated based on provided data.	Income categories are correctly classified.	Market share data reflects the true distribution of users among cities.	All trips within the period are included in the dataset.	The data covers all cities relevant to the cab companies.	Weather severity indices are accurately represented.	Holidays are correctly categorized (national, local).
3	Data represents all trips taken by both companies during the specified period.	Customer data covers all active users during the analysis period.	Data is comprehensive for all cities in which the cab companies operate.	Data accurately reflects the performance metrics of both cab companies.	Population figures are rounded to the nearest thousand for simplicity.	Data covers all relevant weather events during the analysis period.	The impact of holidays on cab usage is uniformly assumed across cities.
